Hugo Lichte lost most of his winter feed Saturday evening. A fire started in his north stacks and the wind being strong and from that direction he could save none of it. It also destroyed several loads of wood which he had used for a corral. About 50 tons were consumed. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as he had not been to the stack, which first ignited, for some time.

Mrs, Amy Earnest died at her home in this village on last Friday evening at half past seven o'clock. Burial took place the following day, Rev. Burleigh, the Methodist minister, conducting a funeral service at her home. Mrs. Earnest was born in or near Palmyra, Ohio, August 31, 1837, and grew up there. Early in life she married Horatio Nelson Earnest. Her oldest child, a daughter, was born at Palmyra. Mr. and Mrs. Earnest later moved to Berrien county, Michigan, where they resided until moying here when the county was first being settled. Mr. Earnest homesteaded land near Nonpareil and later came to Hemingford and went into business. He died here thoroughness and demonstrates the several years ago and both are buried fact that she is amply qualified for her in Hemingford cemetery. Besides the chosen profession. daughter already mentioned there were two sons, Clyde and Wilber. The former was here for several days prior to the funeral, attending his mother and doing all in his power to make her \{ last hours as painless as possible. Her affliction was cancer and she had [ been troubled with the disease for years, at one time going to the hospital at Omaha where an operation was performed, which, however, could not cure her but prolonged her life several years. Since the death of Mr. Earnest she gained her livelihood by nursing. But it was only partly for the remuneration that she did this-it was because her heart was kind and sympathetic and because she loved to be of use in the world. Her patients Joved her for her cheerfulness, usefulness and genuine interest in their welfare and it is pleasant to note that many whom she nursed during sickness came and ministered to her during the long, painful days of her last illness.

After the program, refreshments were served.
